Snow

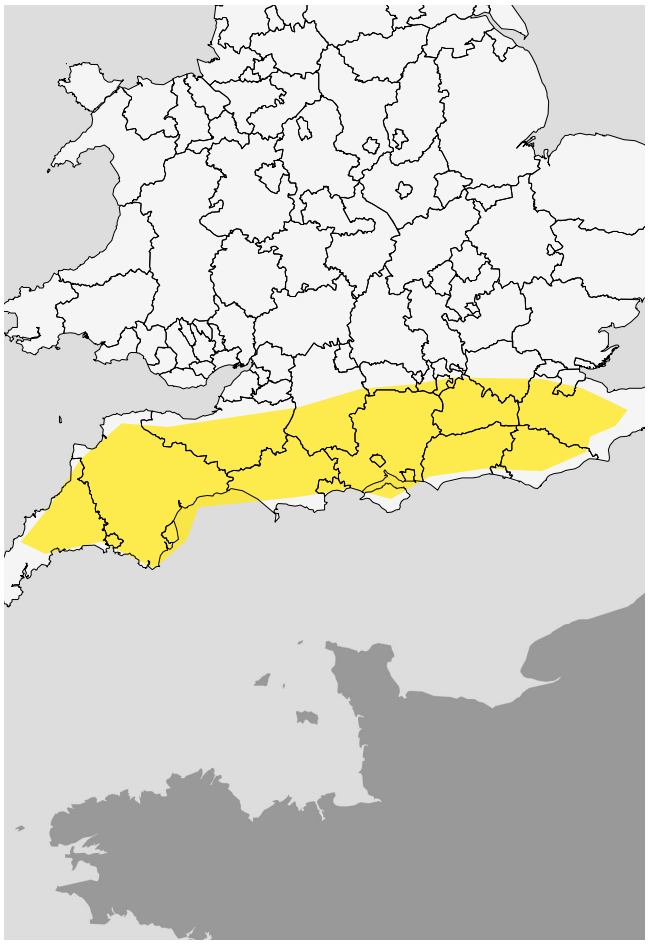
23:59 Wed 8 Jan 2025



A weather system is likely to push sleet and snow into some southern counties of England, bringing possible disruption.

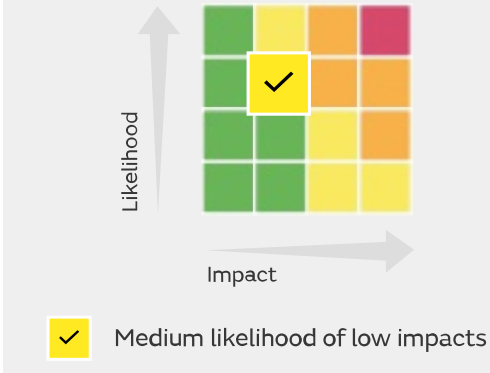
What to expect

- Some roads and railways are likely to be affected by snow, with longer journey times resulting
- Snow may cause reduced visibility and make roads slippery, increasing the chance of accidents.

Further details

Outbreaks of sleet and snow are likely to push in from the southwest during Wednesday, affecting some places especially during the afternoon and evening. Many places will probably see relatively little or no snow settling, (especially on tarmac), but there could be 1-2 cm locally. Upland areas could see more, perhaps 5-10 cm on Dartmoor and Exmoor.

As precipitation clears eastwards and skies clear during Wednesday night, ice is likely to form on untreated surfaces.



Medium likelihood of low impacts

What should I do?

Snowy, wintry weather can cause delays and make driving conditions dangerous. Keep yourself and others safe by planning your route, giving yourself extra time for your journey. Check for road closures or delays to public transport and amend plans if necessary.

If driving, make sure you have some essentials in your car in the event of any delays (e.g., warm clothing, food, water, a blanket, a torch, ice scraper/de icer, a warning triangle, high visibility vest and an in-car phone charger).

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

Impact level reduced but the likelihood of at least some sleet and snow has increased. Parts of east Kent have been removed.
